“Fingertips is such a soulful vibe. The lyrics, written by Felly, gave me the space to sing with Big Bae Energy while the track, produced by Blac Elvis, made me feel like I should be riding along a coast line. So while in the studio the whole tone of this session was old school meets new school allowing me to be chill and free with my delivery. When people here this, I hope all these elements create a warm sense of love, happiness and peace.”

Memphis recording artist Jessica Ray has released four new singles during the pandemic. Each new record is accompanied by a fire video concept that showcases her dance skills and fashion sense.

Her latest, "Deep," is a sultry track that allows for her raspy tone to shine through. A contrast to her delicate higher notes.

Memphis recording artist Jessica Ray drops another new single "I Bet You Will,"

Memphis recording artist Jessica Ray drops another new single "I Bet You Will," immediately following her latest visual for "Lock." Nothing has stopped this songstress from releasing new music during this pandemic, as she continues to drop new singles every month, even a Spanish version of "Whatever," titled, "Lo Que Sea."

Where are you from?

Born and raised in Memphis, TN

How long have you been making music?

I started my entertainment career at the young age of 13 years old; performing at weddings and birthday parties throughout my teen years.

How many songs /albums have you released to date?

7 Records and 1 4 Song Christmas EP

Can you tell us about your latest release and the background and inspirations behind it?

"I Bet You Will" is a record that follows the journey of the second stage in a relationship which is infatuation, curiosity and attraction. While the lyrics are tantalizing, the production and melody are a vibe that creates an atmosphere of fun. The lyrics in "I Bet You Will" are tempting, as they follow the beginning stages of flirting and crushing.

How have you ended up in the music industry?

While attending the University of Memphis, where I graduated with both a bachelors

While attending the University of Memphis, where I graduated with both a bachelors and masters in Music Performance and Journalism, I was in a group on campus called Sound Fuzion; here is where I was able to really experience my calling as a full-time entertainer. After graduating I continued performing across the city doing cover songs at various events and festivals, even opening up for Dru Hill and singing with legendary artist Aaron Neville. Then about 4 years ago I was signed by the Soul Man and Hold on I'm Coming David Porter and The MIME Records family.

What do you think of the music industry in 2020?

I believe this pandemic has definitely effected the music industry forcing us creatives to find other avenues to be heard and seen. The Music Industry is Social Media driven now more than Ever.

Who do you think the most influential artist?

Michael Jackson

Who have you collaborated with so far in your career?

Before being signed, I had the pleasure of performing the duet "I Don't Know Much" with Aarron Neville and had the amazing opportunity of opening for Dru Hill. However since being signed I have not been able to do any collaborations yet but I look forward to what's to come in the very near feature.

How do you think you differ from other artists?

Very simple, there is only one me. I have worked so hard to accept who I am, flaws and all. I'm still growing and learning about myself daily to become even more ground in the person that I am so that I can become a more grounded and self aware artist.

Dead or alive, who would be your dream collaboration?

Micheal Jackson/Chris Brown/ Rhianna/ Beyonce

What was the first album you bought?

With my very own money?!?! (lol) , OMG probably Rhianna

What's your favourite song at the moment?

That's a tough one! "Heat" by Chris Brown, and "Already" by Beyonce

If you had to sell your music collection tomorrow, what album would you leave in your draw?

"Thriller" by Michael Jackson

What is your favourite saying?

Child pronounced "Chiiiiilleeeeeee" lol

What other hobbies or interests do you have?

When I have time which is RARE, binge watch TV shows!!

Tell us more about your upcoming project or this new project?

I just released my latest project "I Bet You Will" this past July 21st. This record follows the journey of the second stage in a relationship which is infatuation, curiosity and attraction. While the lyrics are tantalizing, the production and melody are a vibe that creates an atmosphere of fun. My next record im releasing is August 21st entitled "Deep". This is one of my edger records representing the sound from where I grew up and was raised, South Memphis, TN.

What's in the pipeline after this project?

I am currently working on a 2021 EP release

Thank you for your time and may you carry on making great, fresh music.

Thank you to Artist Rack for being a platform for established artists as well as emerging artists. Thank you for featuring me and aiding in giving me an opportunity to be seen and heard.

Memphis recording artist hosts fundraiser

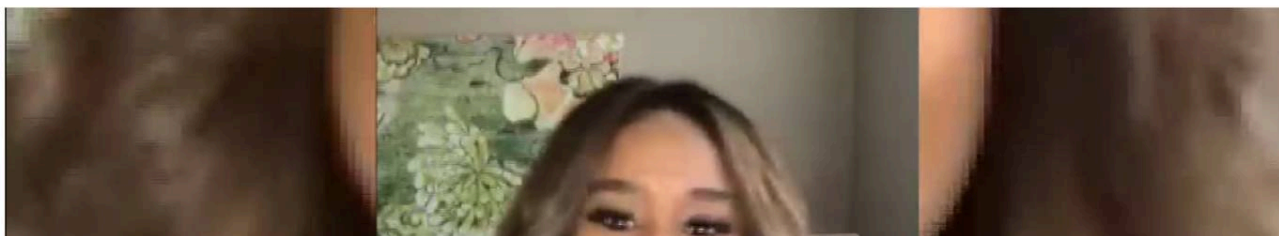

Memphis music artist organizes streaming fundraiser to help fellow musicians

By Camille Connor | October 15, 2020 at 3:06 PM CDT - Updated October 15 at 7:02 PM

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (WMC) - Artists have been hit hard this year during the pandemic. A native Memphian is using her talents to help raise money for local artists who could use some extra funds.

Memphis is the Home of the Blues, the Birthplace of Rock and Roll, but the pandemic put concerts and festivals on hold along with income for local musicians.

Recording artist Jessica Ray has seen it firsthand with her peers in Memphis.

WMC preview: Memphis music artist organizes streaming fundraiser to help fellow musicians

“No more tours for a lot of my friends who were on tour with major artists. They were shut down. They still have families to take care of. They still have mortgages to pay,” Ray said.

Entertainers are no strangers to improvising. Virtual concerts from home have been the go-to “venue” for performances.

Ray is taking things up a notch with a virtual show experience.

The show is titled R.A.W., and it stands for Real Artists Working.

The show will feature her music. Ray collaborated with artists in several fields to pull off the pre-recorded production, from dancers to photographers.

“People that just truly love to do this whether money is involved or not. It’s going to make you feel good to see what can come out of Memphis,” Ray said.

The virtual show will stream on several sites including YouTube and Facebook. The audience will have the opportunity to make donations, which Ray hopes can help artists facing tough times.

“A great way to just bring a bunch of artists together and hopefully be able to pay them for their services. Maybe that can help pay one bill or feed one child. Just some small way to be able to help my immediate music community,” Ray said.

From the comfort of her home, Jessica Ray put together solid visuals for her latest single « Lock ». The single is definitely catchy, especially with its sparky production blending R&B with a heavy Hip Hop base.

Indeed, Jessica showcases her amazing voice through the divine and versatile vocal performance style she offers that kind of reminds of skilled artists like SZA, Tinashe or even Justine Skye.

The Memphis Tennessee natives and label mates have a timeless classic on their hands with "Back In Love." The song is reminiscent of the old school r&b love ballads, the ones that would have you dreaming about your significant other and yearning for them all day long. "Black In Love" kind of reminds us of Peaches and Herb's famous classic love song "Reunited" and it feels so good.

"Back in Love" is a duet for lovers, "Instead of falling back, we fall back in love," the duo sang over the Blac Elvis-produced record while the music video was directed by Lewis.

Both Lewis and Ray have released several songs over the summer, and Lewis was patiently waiting to release this duet with Ray. "While so many songs are about breakups, this song gives listeners truth and wisdom about love. "I have a lot of fear for the lovers of the next generation," said Lewis.

MIME Records recording artist, Brandon Lewis has released his highly anticipated R&B duet featuring his label mate, Jessica Ray titled "Back In Love". The Memphis-born artist has released numerous songs over the summer and continues to rise. In an exclusive interview with ENSPIRE Magazine, Lewis talks about his new single, inspirations, and goals for the future. "Back In Love" is available on all streaming platforms now.

"Back in Love" is a smooth R&B track that combines Lewis's addicting falsettos with Ray's rich vocals to create nostalgic harmonies that make for a seamless and catchy single. The hypnotic low tempo beats and drum kicks add a Trap feel to Lewis's R&B-inspired Pop sound and is beautifully complemented by Ray's dramatic vocal runs. "Back in Love" is a duet for lovers, "Instead of falling back, we fall back in love," the duo sang over the Blac Elvis-produced record. While so many songs are about breakups, this song gives listeners truth and wisdom about love. "I have a lot of fear for the lovers of the next generation," Lewis sings.

Lewis cites his hometown of Memphis, TN as one of his biggest inspirations for the visuals and sonics of his style. The city has a rich and soulful musical origin, producing artists like Otis Redding, BB King, Al Green, and many more. More contemporary artists that have influenced Lewis include James Brown, Jackie Wilson, Marvin Gave. and Pharrell Williams. Lewis welcomes genre-blending and Marvin Gaye, and Pharrell Williams. Lewis welcomes genre-blending and diversification of sounds, and "sees how the R&B genre becoming more rap and afrobeat influenced now as a result of the rise of the hip/hop genre."

On producing his new single and first duet, "Back in Love", Lewis treats each of his songs with a different process that lives and grows on its own. His collaboration with Jessica Ray brought a new sound and soul to the music. "It's all about energy! I think it's a beautiful thing to collaborate, especially when you're working with someone you have grown to know and can appreciate their creativity" The collaboration has certainly paid off. The multi-talented Lewis also directed the music video for the single and tells the story of two consenting lovers realizing they are meant to be together. The music video compliments Lewis and Ray both and celebrates love with effortless style.

On top of producing, singing, and directing, Lewis's lyrics convey meaningful themes and messages. His earlier release, "Black Man", is an empowering song about what it means to live as a Black man. Lewis wants to share diverse themes and messages in his music. Lewis believes "there are no new emotions, so my goal is to resonate with as many people as I can by writing many different relatable stories or ideas."

Despite releasing music during an extremely challenging time during the COVID-19 pandemic, Lewis is confident that he has made immense mental and career strides. "I feel like pandemic proved to me how mentally and spiritually strong I am and can be in future crises. I've released multiple songs, videos, and did many interviews during the pandemic. It's got me confident about a bright future in such a tough during the pandemic. It's got me confident about a bright future in such a tough industry, to say the least," Lewis adds. His resilience leaves a lot of room for him to grow. Lewis sees himself gaining traction in the industry and becoming more established as an artist. "I'm always pushing for more fans and more support around the movement. I want people to grow with me!"

Lewis is a star in the making. His hard work shows in his music and he continues to achieve his goals. By staying close to his roots while experimenting with new sounds, Lewis has found a unique place in the industry and is here to stay.

New Music: Brandon Lewis Feat. Jessica Ray Releases What's Sure To Be A Classic "Back In Love"

thisisrnb.com | 11-13

Mime Records recording artist Brandon Lewis drops his highly anticipated duet featuring Jessica Ray "Back In Love." The Memphis Tennessee natives and label mates have a timeless classic on their hands with "Back In Love." The song is reminiscent of the old school r&b love ballads, the ones that would have you dreaming about your significant other and yearning for them all day long. "Black In Love" kind of reminds us of Peaches and Herb's famous classic love song "Reunited" and it feels so good.

Shout Out Sunday. Interview With Recording Artists Brandon Lewis and Jessica Ray.

MIME Records recording artists Brandon Lewis releases his highly anticipated duet featuring his label mate Jessica Ray simply titled "Back In Love." Both having just released numerous songs over the summer, Brandon couldn't wait to release this timeless single that will be soon be this generation's iconic duo. While so many songs are about breakups, this song gives listeners truth and wisdom about love. "I have a lot of fear for the lovers of the next generation," Brandon sings. Back in Love is a duet for lovers, "Instead of falling back, we fall back in love," the duo sang over the Blac Elvis-produced record. The music video was directed by Brandon and tells the story of two consenting lovers realizing they're meant to be together. "Back In Love" is now available on all streaming platforms.

How did you all discover your passion for music?

Jessica: It was two things for me that made me aware of my passion. First was seeing Michael Jackson's concert in Bucharest on VHS (lol) when I was younger. Thinking to myself how entertained I was, the feeling I got from watching it, how I wanted to know what it took to put that entire show together. Especially from musical start point, hearing the chord changes and how they created emotion which every hit, riff or even silence. The next time I was made aware of my passion for music was how I was able to make people feel when I first started performing. The look in their eyes, the memories I could tell I would bring, that special person I made them think about, the fun they were having. It all made sense for me and didn't take me long to realize this was what I wanted to do for the rest of my life.

Brandon: Honestly, it was the moment that I realized music saved my life. I felt compelled to give it my all in return.

Artist you all would like to do a song with?

Jessica: Of course BEYONCE (who doesn't right?). Chris Brown is a must! Normani and H.E.R (her music is insane).

Jessica: Touring both in the states and international, Top 100 Charts, #1 on the Billboards, streaming and moving even more units and connecting more with fans.

Jessica: I'm currently have a song entitled "Fingertips" out and streaming everywhere. Along with my Christmas Ep "A Christmas Vibe" streaming everywhere.

Brandon: Be on the lookout for a concept EP project sometime in the first half of 2021.

You can only listen to one album for the rest of your life, what album is it?

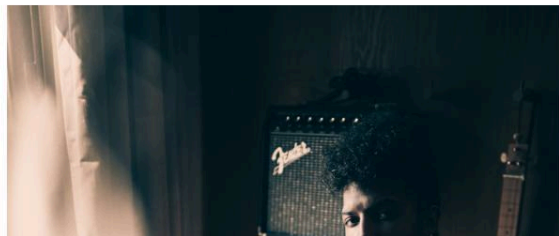

Jessica: I can't, so many. Although I love ALL of MJ's records, I would have to say the Thriller album, because my all time favorite song is Human Nature. However, Beyoncé's Album Lemonade would be a close second.

Brandon: Maxwell Embrya album.

What album had the biggest impact on you as a teenager?

Jessica: That's a tough one, but I would have to go with Aaliyah's self-titled album released in 2001.

Brandon: Michael Jackson Off The Wall album.

What is the one book or movie that made you change your point of view on a subject?

Jessica: Honestly almost any book or movie that deals on race. I had a particular picture, a naive, rosy colored picture of what society looked like. It wasn't until I got older, started paying attention to the message of certain movies and seeing the parallel. Much more real and harsh version in real life that woke me up to what was truly going on around me. Not in a hatred way but, definitely in more of an aware educated way.

Brandon: Movie-The Pursuit of Happiness. Book-The Alchemist.

How can everyone keep in contact with you on social media?

Jessica: They can follow me on all social media platforms, mainly Facebook (Jessica Ray Online), Twitter and Instagram (@iamjessica_ray).
